FACT SHEET

- Who: 11:11 is comprised of emerging artists from the Boston area. Founder Brian Tuttle, age 26, has written 27 plays, most of which have been produced by 11:11.
- What: The desire to produce original work led a group of Midwestern theatre students to create 11:11 Theatre Company in 2000. 11:11 produced 4 summer stock seasons in Columbus, Ohio before relocating to Boston in 2004.
- When: In 2006-2007 11:11 will produce 5 shows, including 4 original works.
- Where: 11:11's next production, Where the Lost Boys Go, will debut in March at the Boston Center for the Arts. Other shows this year have/will take place at Boston Devanaughn Theatre, Boston Center for the Arts..
- Why: 11:11 seeks to move audiences by producing new works rooted in the intricacy of human relationships. The company's official mission is to create intimate theatrical performances that engage and inspire the community.
- How: 11:11 recently incorporated as a non-profit and is now exploring sponsorship opportunities.
- Awards and praise:
  - "Diffusion of Loss displayed a delightful array of characters and provided some truly poignant moments. An excellent effort on behalf of all involved."
Theater Mirror, 2006
  - "The fresh and savvy 11:11 Theatre Company certainly belongs on the watch list as a creator of interesting theater in Boston." Boston Globe, 2005
  - "The depth of their sincerity is touchingly, dangerously honest," Theater Mirror, 2004
